Taft Does Not Consult Roosevelt

(Special Correspondence of The Star.)

WASHINGTON, January 18.—Mr. Taft is not keeping President Roosevelt posted on the formation of his cabinet. He is neither seeking the advice of the President, nor submitting names for his approval, after selection has been made. The fact is that President Roosevelt is entirely in the dark with regard to the Taft cabinet; he knows no more than he gathers from the newspapers.

There is some truth in the report that the President feels slighted because Mr. Taft has not seen fit to offer Secretary Loeb a place in his cabinet, but the President is more disturbed because of the fact that Mr. Taft is inclined to choose an entirely new cabinet, retiring all members of the present body with the possible exception of Secretary of War Wright, who was appointed on recommendation of Mr. Taft, just prior to his retirement from the Roosevelt cabinet.

President-elect Taft, in making his home cabinet selections, regardless of advice of others, is living up to the expectations of his closest friends. During the campaign the charge was frequently made that Taft would be subservient to the will of Roosevelt; the formation of the cabinet is, one evidence that the incoming President intends to be independent of his predecessor.

Then, too, Mr. Taft holds a cabinet in somewhat different light from President Roosevelt; the new President believes a cabinet should be composed of able advisors; Mr. Roosevelt built his cabinets with a view to securing faithful servants. Mr. Taft, like Mr. Roosevelt, demands loyalty in his cabinet men, but he is demanding the highest ability as well.

President-elect Taft, in forming his cabinet, has undertaken to choose men not alone capable of successfully conducting the business of the respective departments to which they may be assigned, but men capable of advising him on any and all public questions likely to confront the incoming administration. In other words, he proposes that his cabinet shall be an advisory, as well as an administrative body, and not a congenial official family to assemble regularly at the White House to receive orders.

It is a well-recognized fact that with a single exception, there is not a member of the present cabinet who is not absolutely dominated by President Roosevelt. The exception is Secretary Root, soon to enter the Senate. The present cabinet is, in a sense, an advisory body, but the time has never been when that cabinet has been able to sway President Roosevelt. Therefore the policies of the administration are purely Roosevelt policies, and the cabinet members, with the single exception of Root, are mere instruments for the carrying out of orders from the White House.

But Mr. Taft thinks a cabinet should be built along different lines. He wants to surround himself with a cabinet of big, broad, capable men, whose judgment is sound, and whose advice is worth the seeking. In the main he wants lawyers—and by that he meant men of recognized standing in the legal profession; not mere graduates of law schools. The work of the incoming administration will be largely one of administering and interpreting legislation that has resulted from the vigorous administration of President Roosevelt. There must necessarily be corrections, amendments, and modifications. To do this properly will require well-trained minds.

While Mr. Taft has confidence in his own judgment, he adheres to the old saying, "two minds are better than one," and if two are better than one, certainly ten are better than one. But he is anxious that the nine minds to be brought into his cabinet shall be such minds as can intelligently cope with big public issues. He has striven to induce recognized leaders of men to enter his cabinet, and it is said on good authority that when the list is finally pronounced, it will be found that men of no mean intelligence have been secured.

In speaking with a close friend about the formation of his cabinet, President-elect Taft said that he wanted his cabinet officers to advise him on all important issues. He did not want them to specialize, giving their whole attention to their respective departments, but he wanted, in his cabinet, to have the policies of the War Department discussed by the entire cabinet, and outlined as a result of general conference, rather than by his Secretary of War alone. Likewise, he wanted his Attorney General to present important problems of the Department of Justice, that the entire Cabinet might pass judgment. While he might have infinite confidence in every one of his cabinet officers, he yet wanted each to have the benefit of the judgment of the others, just as he himself wanted the benefit of the advice of all.

If Mr. Taft's cabinet is finally formed along the lines indicated, it is a certainty that several members of the present cabinet will not be eligible for reappointment; indeed, the belief is growing that no member of the Roosevelt cabinet will sit at the Taft cabinet board, unless it be Secretary Wilson, who is anxious to break all cabinet records for length of service.

MRS. KAAE'S ACCOUNTS

DENONCED BY GUARDIAN OF CARTER MINORS AS A MOCKERY AND A FARCE.

*Edgar Henriques, guardian of the minors, has filed exceptions to the allowance of accounts of Jessie K. Kahe, executrix of the estate of Margaret V. Carter. He is represented by E. A. Douthett.

It is averred that the executrix has failed and neglected to render a true, fair and correct account, or any account of the moneys which have come into her possession. Also that many items and charges are "excessive, illegal, improper and not properly or at all chargeable against the estate."

The fourth paragraph of allegations is a warm one, reading as follows: "That it affirmatively appears from the so-called, purported or pretended accounts as such executrix and administratrix, that the same are frivolous and trifling, not intended to give a full, fair, accurate, or any account of her receipts and disbursements in her respective capacities, and fail to fairly correctly or at all comply with the previous order of this court, made and entered herein on the 7th day of July, A. D. 1905; and that said so-called accounts are a mockery, a travesty upon Justice and a farce."

THE VICAR'S WATCH.

A joke unconsciously perpetrated by the vicar of St. John's, Keswick, ought to rang high in the annals of pulpit humor. Before the service started the vicar was handed a lady's watch which had been found in the churchyard. After making the customary announcement, says the North Mail, he referred to the finding of the watch which, he stated, was in the vestry awaiting an owner, and then solemnly said, "Hymn No. 110: 'Lord, her watch Thy church is keeping.'"—Christian Register.

MALIHINIS WILL ENTER THE PARADE

The Automobile Committee of the Floral Parade held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the office of Chairman J. M. Dowsett, at which report of progress was made. The committee is much encouraged by the interest that is being taken in Honolulu's fête day and feel assured that the success this year will far exceed that of any previous season.

Although the committee has already received assurances of entries of autos to nearly the entire number that were entered last year, it has been found impossible to see personally the owners of all of the several hundred machines in the city, and it was therefore decided to address a circular letter to every owner of a motor car on the license list, calling attention to the fact that there is less than three of Camp Lelikehu, Golf and bathing continue the popular features of the hotel aside from the excellent cuisine. Those who are not the owners of autos may hire them for the ride or take the train to the door—either is good enough for the average man.

FINED FIVER FOR FIGHTING

John Nash, a deeply colored gentleman, and his wife, equally colored if not more so, were before Judge Andrade this morning on the charge of affray. It is nothing unusual to hear of the Nashes in court, but, as a rule, Mrs. Nash is complainant against her husband. This morning, however, the interesting black pair were defendants, and the long arm of the government had them snugly entwined in its patronizing embrace. After all the Hawaiian and negro testimony had been sifted, the court discharged Mrs. John but fined her spouse the sum of $5 for injuries to the reputation of the community.

This latest Nash trouble took place on Liliha street. The colored sport and his better half had been entertaining two other negroes. According to Nash and his wife the guests began to fight among themselves and the host threw them out. In the meanwhile, however, one of the darkeys had been knocked down and was thought to be quite badly hurt. At that juncture the police appeared and arrested the Nash family.

In her testimony Mrs. Nash charged the police with extreme rudeness in making the arrest. She described how one of them had struck her husband a terrific blow on the head with his club. "Did the blow knock him out?"—did it hurt him seriously?" interrupted the court. "Oh, no, sir," answered the lump of ebony. "I done jist see he hit him in de haid, sir. He ain't min' miffin like dat, sir, 'cept de disgracement of de ting."

Antone Acosta, a Porto Rican who has rotated between the dives and the jail ever since he was brought to the country by the planters some years ago, was sent to the reef for fifteen days for starting a row in a Japanese saloon near the railway depot. The court warned him that this was the last time he would be let off so easily.

All of a big batch of Japanese, including one woman, arrested yesterday for gambling forfeited bail this morning, the government raking in the $10 put up by each of them.

FILIPINOS PROUD OF THEIR BAND

The Philippine people are justly proud of the band. The Manila Times says: "The Constabulary Band can make Mr. Sousa's pets look like a bunch of amateurs," and Loving's delightful entertainers did certainly play Sousa's band out of countenance when the two were pitted against each other in the capital city of the people who want to be shown.

The band is dual in its capacity. It plays with equal facility as a full military organization or as a symphony orchestra. It is admirably balanced and several of the most noted musical critics have extolled its interpretation of classical scores in the most laudatory language. Colonel Mark L. Hresny travels in command of the party.

Tickets are now selling fast at Bergstrom's, though there are still a number of fine seats for both performances.

Weeks remaining before the parade, and urging all who intend to take part to let the Committee know of their intentions at the earliest possible moment, and if they want any suggestions, to call on the Chairman, Senator Dowsett, who has collected a large number of ideas in form of car pictures of car decorations at previous parades here, and on the mainland.

The committee is addressing special letters to the various tourists in the city who have automobiles with them, inviting them to take part, and already four favorable replies have been received. The interest which these malihinis are taking in the coming event has already caused some uneasiness among the local enthusiasts over the safety of prizes to be offered, for there is likely to be some splendid entries made by the visitors. The Alameda due on Friday, it has been learned, has on board several machines, and the owners will be also invited to enter them in the Parade.

Word has also been received from Fort Shafter, and from the Cavalry post at Lelikehu, to the effect that each of these places expect to enter one or more cars or floats. It is expected also that the other bodies of troops—the marine corps, engineers, etc.—will also have a part in the procession, as they did last year.
